URGENT – PLEASE READ

Pastors and Friends,

The Appalachian Mountain Ministry (AMM) needs your help. My heart is heavy because the volunteers we have are being overworked. We don't have the number of volunteers we need to pick up donations, load trucks and deliver loads to our Ministry Partners in Appalachia. There are families in the areas we serve who are in desperate need of the things donated to AMM and, Praise God, donations are increasing. But getting them to our ministry partners is getting harder because we lack the number of volunteers needed. We currently have about 10 faithful men who help pick up donations, load trucks, and drive them to our ministry partners. Due to various issues, there are times when some of them have not been able to help, which makes it harder on the others. Galatians 6:9 tells us "To not grow weary in doing good" but the men we have helping are getting close to that. My goal is to get our number of volunteers up to 50 or 60 so we can rotate through the list and men would only have to help about once every 6 to 8 weeks.

I am asking everyone who reads this newsletter article to consider helping us. If for some reason you are unable to help, think of others who might be available and have the time to help us. I ask that you then tell them about this ministry or send me their contact information and I will explain the ministry to them. I am certain there are those who would help if they only knew what the ministry is all about.

Pastors, please mention this need in your Sunday Bulletin or give me a few minutes to come and tell your congregation about this ministry and why it is so important.
